Lily-Rose Depp walked the red carpet on Sunday night for the 2020 BAFTAs, returning to an all-black lace look that gave new meaning to the naked dress. Her dress is from the Chanel Pre-Autumn Collection 2020, and the supersexy look was one of the most showstopping ensembles from the night.

Lily-Rose's dress featured a blush, lace catsuit layered under a sheer black, square neck, spaghetti strap dress with a boned bodice and a ruffled hem and a thigh-high split. The sleeves of the bodysuit extended all the way down to the accessorized with Chanel chain bracelets that were embellished with tokens — and the leggings were just the subtle and beaded underwear look and sans lace straight black pinstripe heels.

Ahead, see Lily-Rose's gorgeous red carpet look from all angles.
